Appreciation Cards for Dedication

In an effort to express our gratitude for their dedication and hard work, Oleevia Foundation distributed Appreciation Cards to honor the contributions of these remarkable women. This small token of recognition aimed to convey our heartfelt appreciation for their consistent efforts in keeping our city clean.

Awareness Session on Health and Hygiene

As part of the event, our Social Worker and Project Coordinator Sreeja conducted an awareness session on health and hygiene for the women of Harithakarmasena. The session aimed to provide valuable insights on maintaining personal health, safety practices, and the importance of hygiene in their daily work.

Recognizing Unsung Heroes

On the occasion of International Women's Day, March 8, 2025, the Oleevia Foundation took a significant step under Project Sashakt Naari in recognizing the unsung heroes of our society—the women working as 'Harithakarmasena' under Kudumbasree in the field of sanitation and waste management. These women, who work tirelessly to maintain cleanliness and promote sustainable practices in local self-government bodies, play a vital role in preserving the environment and ensuring public health.

Refreshment and Community Bonding

We also arranged tea and snacks for refreshments, offering the women a brief but much-deserved break from their daily routines. The gathering created an opportunity to celebrate their hard work, foster a sense of community, and acknowledge their invaluable contribution to society.

Empowering Women in Sustainability

The initiative aligns with Oleevia Foundation's commitment to empowering women and supporting marginalized communities. By recognizing the silent yet impactful work of the Harithakarmasena members, we aim to shed light on the importance of their role in sustainable development and inspire others to value their contributions.
